

1st International Congress of the Grenoble Institute of Cancer Research Resistance to Targeted Therapies

3rd – 4th October 2013
Grenoble, France

We are pleased to announce the 1st International Congress of the Grenoble Institute of Cancer Research (GIRC) to be held in the city of Grenoble this October. The topic of the meeting is “Resistance to targeted therapies”. Spectacular advances in targeted cancer therapy are allowing large numbers of cancer patients to receive less aggressive treatment with impressive clinical results. However, the overall results are counterbalanced by the development of acquired resistance. The goal of this meeting is to provide an overview of our current understanding of the biological and genetic causes for tumor escape.
